

JESUITS

Seventy-five Years in the Society

Bro. Italo A. Parnoff, SJ, entered the Society in 1935. He spent many years in Baghdad, acting as general factotum and manager of electrical and mechanical matters. He spent 10 years as assistant to the minister at Campion Center, where he currently resides.

Seventy-Years in the Society

Rev. Martin F. McCarthy, SJ, (R.I.P.), entered the Society in 1940. He was Assistant Director of the Vatican Observatory and was part of the Vatican astronomical research group in Arizona. Later he was an astronomy teacher at Georgetown University and Staff Astronomer at Kino House in Tucson, Arizona. Fr. McCarthy entered into eternal rest on February 5, 2010.

Rev. James W. Skehan, SJ, entered in 1940. After receiving a doctorate in geology at Harvard University he joined the faculty at Boston College, initially as a teacher and subsequently as Department Chair, Dean, and Director of the Weston Observatory, a career that lasted 50 years. He currently holds the title of Professor Emeritus of geology and Director Emeritus of Weston Observatory at Campion Center.

Sixty Years in the Society

Rev. William A. Barry, SJ, a native of Worcester, entered the Society in 1950. He earned a doctorate in Psychology from the University of Michigan, taught psychology at the Weston School of Theology, and co-founded the Center for Religious Development. He served the Province as Vice Provincial for Formation and Provincial. He now serves as Co-Director of the Tertianship Program, Retreat Director at Campion Center, and is the Editor of Human Development magazine.

Rev. John E. Brooks, SJ, a Boston native, has been a Holy Cross Crusader from the beginning. He entered the Society in 1950 and shortly after began his work in higher education at the College of the Holy Cross, initially as a teacher of mathematics and physics, and later as theology professor and department chair. He was President of the college for 24 years making him part of the college's life for 40 years and counting.

Rev. Lawrence E. Corcoran, SJ, a native of Massachusetts, entered the Society in 1950. He taught English and was department chair for 20 years at Boston College High School. Fr. Corcoran has also worked in retreat ministry at both St. Joseph's Center in Charlestown and Campion Center where he now resides.

Rev. Robert J. Daly, SJ, entered the Society in 1950. Theology has always been a focus of his life, during his studies in Italy and Germany, and in his years teaching at Boston College. He was the Director of the Jesuit Institute at Boston College and editor of the journal, Theological Studies. He currently is Professor Emeritus of theology at Boston College and Provincial Assistant for higher education for the New England Province.

Sixty Years in the Society

Rev. George A. Gallarelli, SJ, entered the Society in 1950 and has spent the past 45 years working in Connecticut in higher and secondary education. Wearing a variety of hats while at Fairfield University he was Director of resident students, admissions, and the student center, and a teacher of business communications and theology. He was an educational counselor at St. Joseph High School and later returned to Fairfield Preparatory School, where he is Assistant Director of Educational Counseling.

Rev. Joseph A. MacWade, SJ, entered the Jesuits in 1950. He has served in Kingston for the past 30 years, where he taught theology, was Director of Christian Life Communities, and currently is a religious education teacher and defensor vinculi in the Archdiocese of Kingston.

Rev. Normand A. Pepin, SJ, entered the Society in 1950 and began his work in secondary education as a teacher of math, French, and science. He spent the past 30 years teaching, acting as director of a house of prayer, and chaplain in Fairbanks, Alaska. An accomplished musician, he has composed prize-winning works on religious themes for chorus soloists and orchestras. Fr. Pepin recently returned to his home province and is residing at Campion Center.

Rev. Donald J. Plocke, SJ, entered the Society of Jesus in 1950. He earned a doctorate in biology from MIT and has spent the past 40 years teaching biology and directing research projects at Boston College. For a number of years he served as department chair and mentored undergraduate and graduate students.

Sixty Years in the Society

Rev. Solomon I. Sara, SJ, a native Iraqi, entered the society in 1950. He studied Linguistics at Georgetown University and spent the subsequent 40 years as Professor and Chair of Linguistics there.

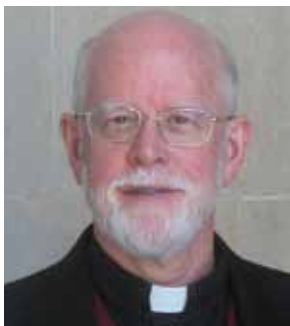

Fifty Years in the Society

Rev. Harvey D. Egan, SJ, entered the Society of Jesus in 1960. He studied with Karl Rahner and has written a number of books on Rahner and on spirituality and theology. He has been a Professor of theology at Boston College for the past 35 years.

Rev. Thomas J. Gallagher, SJ, (R.I.P.), entered the Society in 1960. He was engaged in retreat ministry and spiritual direction at the Jesuit Urban Center. In his latter years he resided at Campion Center and entered into eternal rest on October 2, 2009.

Rev. Paul C. Kenney, SJ, a Boston native, entered the Society in 1960. He taught communications and served as communications director and ecclesiastical assistant to the Christian Life Community in New England. Fr. Kenney also served as chaplain at Regis College and Carney Hospital. He currently is engaged in pastoral ministry at Campion Center.

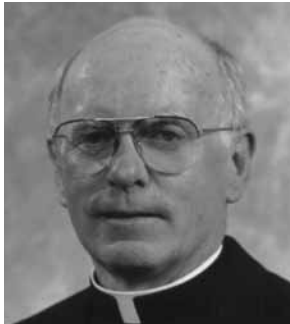

Fifty Years in the Society

Rev. Philip S. Kiley, SJ, a native of Worcester, entered the Society in 1960. He has worked in libraries and in parish ministry in Jamaica, the University of Scranton, Holy Apostles Seminary in Connecticut, and in parishes of the archdiocese. He is currently assistant archivist at the Burns Library at Boston College and librarian of the Jesuit Community there.

Rev. Donald A. MacMillan, SJ, a native of Boston, entered the Society in 1960. He taught and held various administration roles at both Boston College High School and Bishop Connolly High School in Fall River. Currently he is the senior campus minister at Boston College where he leads domestic and international immersion programs focusing on issues of social justice and faith.

Rev. John J. Paris, SJ, a native of Boston, MA entered the Society of Jesus in 1960. He taught theological and medical ethics at the College of the Holy Cross and the University of Massachusetts Medical School. He has been a visiting professor at the Stritch School of Medicine in Chicago and visiting scholar at Woodstock Theological Center in Washington, DC, in addition to lecturing widely on medical ethics. He is currently is Professor of Bioethics at Boston College.

Rev. John R. Reboli, SJ, entered the Society in 1960. For the past 30 years, he has taught and written about art history at the College of the Holy Cross, where he holds the rank of Professor, and has been chair of the department, serving also as faculty advisor to student theatre groups. For a number of years he has spent summers working in a parish in lower Manhattan.

Fifty Years in the Society

Rev. Richard J. Stanley, SJ, entered the Jesuits in 1960. He has worked in pastoral ministry at the Jesuit Urban Center in Boston, served as province director of vocations, and has been engaged in the ministry of the Spiritual Exercises. Currently he directs retreats at Eastern Point Retreat House in Gloucester.

Rev. James F. Walsh, SJ, a native of Dorchester, Massachusetts, entered the Jesuits in 1960. A graduate of Boston College School of Law, where he later taught, he has worked in various settings relating law to social justice. Currently he is superior at Loyola House, acts as the provincial liaison to Jesuit Volunteer Corps East, and is the director of the Metro Law Center.

Twenty-Five Years in the Society

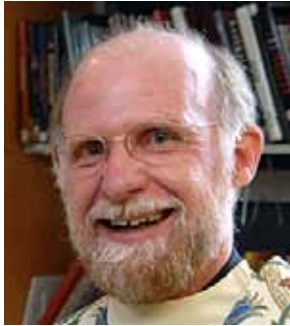

Rev. James P. Carr, SJ, entered the Society in August 1985. He began his ministerial duties at Boston College High School as campus minister and vice-principal of spiritual formation. He was Socius to novices both in Boston and Syracuse, then served as Superior at Gonzaga Eastern Point Retreat House in Gloucester. Recently he was named Director of Novices for the New York, Maryland, and New England Provinces.

Rev. Myles N. Sheehan, SJ, a native of Boston, entered the Society in 1985. After graduating from Dartmouth University School of Medicine, he became a physician and medical professor at the Stritch School of Medicine at Loyola University Chicago. He returned to his home province where he serves as Provincial of the New England Province.

Twenty-Five Years in the Society

Rev. William E. Stempsey, SJ, entered the Society in 1985. For the last 15 years he has been professor of philosophy and medical ethics at the College of the Holy Cross.

Sixty Years in the Priesthood

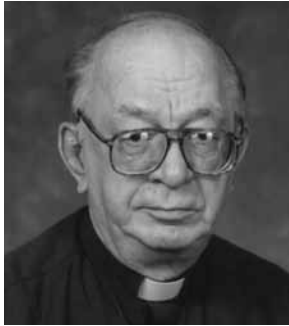

Rev. Alfred R. Desautels, SJ, (R.I.P.), entered the Society of Jesus in 1937. He taught French and Spanish at Fairfield College Preparatory School, Fordham University, and for more than 50 years at the College of the Holy Cross. He entered into eternal rest February 22, 2010.

Rev. Francis J. O'Neill, SJ, (R.I.P.), a native of Massachusetts, entered the Society in 1938. He served as a religion and English teacher at Baghdad College, and then as a religion teacher and student counselor at Boston College High School. He later worked in parish ministry at St. Mary's Church and the Immaculate Conception Church in Boston. Fr. O'Neill entered into eternal rest October 28, 2009.

Fifty Years in the Priesthood

Rev. Albert A. Cardoni, SJ, a native of Massachusetts, entered the Society of Jesus in 1926. He served as an instructor of religion, English, and mathematics at Baghdad College and also taught philosophy and theology at Al-Hikma University. Subsequently, he taught for 32 years at Fairfield University. He is currently residing at Campion Center.

Rev. Robert G. Doherty, SJ, a native of Massachusetts, entered the Society in 1948. He served as a teacher of English and mathematics at Cranwell School as well as a teacher of biology and mathematics at Baghdad College. He was Assistant Director of Novices at Shadowbrook and after studying ascetical theology at the Gregorian University in Rome returned to Shadowbrook as the spiritual director of juniors. For many years he directed the Spiritual Exercises at Campion Center and taught theology at Pope John XXIII Seminary. Currently, he resides at Campion Center.

Rev. Robert E. Lindsay, SJ, a native of Washington D.C., entered the Society in 1948. He has been involved in the ministry of the Spiritual Exercises and spiritual direction at Eastern Point Retreat House, Boston College High School, the Jesuit Center in Wernersville, and in spirituality centers in Kenya, Africa and Jamaica. He has also served as retreat director at Campion Center, where he currently resides.

Rev. Arthur H. Paré, SJ, entered the Society in 1947. Fr. Paré has taught English and history at Notre Dame College in Lebanon, Shadowbrook, Cranwell School, Kinball Union Academy, and Bishop Connolly High School, and has taught French at Cheverus High School. He later served as assistant pastor in various parishes in New Hampshire and Maine. He is currently pastoral minister at St. Joseph's Church in Salem, New Hampshire.

Fifty Years in the Priesthood

Rev. Walter R. Pelletier, SJ, a native of Connecticut, entered the Society in 1947. He served as English, religion and mathematics teacher at Baghdad College, where he was also assistant principal and prefect of discipline. He later taught religion and mathematics at Fairfield Preparatory School, as well as serving as director of counseling education, and as subminister, treasurer, minister, and acting rector of the Jesuit Community at Fairfield.

Twenty-five Years in the Priesthood

Rev. James J. Mayzik, SJ, entered the Society in 1976. He has served as professor of communications at Fairfield University and currently is director of the Media Center and of the Ignatian Residential College, as well as professor of visual and performing arts at Fairfield University.

Rev. Perard C. Monestime, SJ, a Haitian native, entered the Jesuits in 1993. He began his work at Boston College High School as both director of diversity and teacher of religious education. He returned to his home country of Haiti as vice Superior of his Jesuit Community and director of Jesuit Refugee and Migrant Services in Haiti, where he also works in a Fey y Alegria School.

Rev. James M. Hayes, SJ, entered the Society in 1975. Fr. Hayes has served as campus minister at the College of the Holy Cross, director of vocations for the Province, associate chaplain for Jesuit mission and identity, and rector of the Jesuit Community at the College of the Holy Cross.

Twenty-five Years in the Priesthood

Rev. Dennis J. Yesalonia, SJ, a graduate of College of the Holy Cross, entered the Society of Jesus in 1976. Fr. Yesalonia earned his J.D. from the University Notre Dame and returned to New England to provide legal counsel in finance and business affairs at Boston College, and later the College of the Holy Cross. Fr. Yesalonia is currently serving as Treasurer for the New England Province.

New England Province of Jesuits
PO Box 9199
Watertown, MA 02471-9199
617-607-2800
www.sjnen.org